David Hill

Area 6 Director

Group Product Director, Microsoft, Inc.

David currently works for Microsoft in their Strategic Missions & Technologies division, leading product strategy and execution for a portfolio of applications geared towards accelerating the adoption of cloud computing technologies in the U.S. Government, highly regulated companies, and the broader public sector. Before transitioning to Microsoft, he worked for Amazon and Lockheed Martin in program leadership and engineering centric roles in Missouri and Texas.

At Missouri S&T David earned a bachelor's degree in engineering management. During his studies, David was a leader in Student Council, the Student Union Board (SUB), American Society for Engineering Management (ASEM), the Institute of Industrial and Systems Engineers (IISE) and Pi Kappa Alpha.

Beyond his studies at S&T, David obtained a Master of Business Administration (MBA) from the University of Texas, a Master of System Engineering (M.S.) from Southern Methodist University and had been licensed as a professional engineering (P.E.) in Texas.

David currently lives in Seattle, Washington with his wife, Tara, who is also an S&T alumna and their two kids. He enjoys spending time with his family exploring all that the Pacific Northwest has to offer, traveling to see new parts of the world, and tinkering as a hobbyist software engineer.
